ROW DIVERSIFIED PROGRAM

The investment objective of the ROW Diversified Program is to seek to generate consistent long-term appreciation through active leveraged investing in global futures, forwards, and options markets. We utilize a quantitative approach to forecasting, portfolio construction, and risk management. The Program invests in currency, interest rate, energy, agriculture, and equity index instruments. We achieve style diversification by using a combination of Carry, Trend, Fair Value, Pattern Recognition, Volatility, Sentiment, and Mean Reversion models.

MANAGER'S COMMENTARY* – October 2014

The ROW Diversified Program returned -1.82% in October, after fees and expenses. Our best day was +2.14%, while our worst day was -1.66%. The portfolio's daily realized volatility during October was 18.57% annualized.

Entering October, our positions in equities, bonds, and FX favored the price action that we saw through October 15th – we were short equities, long bonds (mainly EU), and long USD. October 15th was the exhaustion day – Ebola fears caught fire and US equities were down close to 3% during the day before recovering. From that point forward, all of these trends reversed, and we spent most of the month reducing or even flipping our exposure to our financial market positions. In the physical commodity space, Agriculture markets across the board reversed their multi-month declines and surged higher, leading to losses in Agriculture-Trend. Energy markets were the lone standout – they continued their decline of the last few months.

Going forward, the October shakeup has led to reductions in most positions, with our largest exposures still similar to where we started October – long USD/RUB and USD/BRL, short Crude and its products, short Ags, and long Bunds/Bobl.
